

10th Annual Center for Circadian Biology Symposium

March 4-6, 2020

UC San Diego

An exciting event and opportunity

The 10th Annual "From Cells to Clinic" Symposium hosted by the Center for Circadian Biology (CCB), at University of California, San Diego. Bringing together over 150 attendees for this 3-day event.

The mission of the Center for Circadian Biology is to advance leading-edge research in circadian biology that will have dramatic and lasting impacts on improving human health, the environment and the economy. Our aim is to establish UC San Diego and Torrey Pines Mesa as the premier international center of academic excellence in circadian research.

The symposium features an unparalleled breadth and depth of leading-edge research and groundbreaking biological timing discoveries in plants, animals and humans, and spans molecular biology to clinical applications. By sponsoring, you will join the Who's Who in circadian research in this exciting venture and help us invent the future.
